Dockside gambling passes

Proponents celebrate as opponents plan next step

BY TRACI BONNEY

Both camps were pleased with the voter turnout, but that's where the similarity ended Tuesday night.

As the last votes were tallied and the final count was announced in the very close election, dockside gambling supporters let out a victory yell while opponents quietly donned coats and hats to leave the county courthouse.

Reporters swarmed around Bay St. Louis Mayor Edward Favre after the official announcement that dockside gambling had passed with a vote of 4,246 for and 4,004 against, with only 61 affidavits — not enough to sway the vote — left to tally.

Favre's comment, that the people had sent a message in favor of cruise vessel gaming and its potential benefits, elicited another cheer from proponents.

Gambling opponent Ron Skinner, pastor of Word of Faith Christian Fellowship, said he was disappointed with the vote, but did not plan to give up at this time.

"We'll just continue the war. We lost this battle, but we'll keep going."

Skinner said gambling opponents will push for the legislature to repeal the dockside gambling law, which he called bulky and unmanageable, and will consider challenging the law's constitutionality in the state courts if necessary.

"We're not finished yet. This is only 'round one'."

The only comment made by the Rev. Nathan Barber, pastor of First Baptist Church in Bay St. Louis, was: "It was good for the people to vote on this, because now they will have to assume the responsibility and accountability for bringing it into Hancock County."

After repeated attempts to contact him, dockside gambling proponent Chuck Benvenuti could not be reached for comment.

Franckiewicz: Gambling law should be tightened, clarified

BY TRACI BONNEY

It's back to the drafting table for state legislators in January, now that dockside gambling has passed in Hancock and other Mississippi counties.

Sen. Vic Franckiewicz said the narrow vote margin which made cruise vessel gaming a reality in Hancock County puts the legislative ball in the state's court.

"I think everyone expected the vote to be close, and it surely was. I would like for it to have been stronger, either way, because I don't want to see the community so divided."

"I think it's now incumbent on us elected officials to find more common ground."

Franckiewicz has some definite ideas about tightening gambling legislation. In an interview Wednesday, he listed five points of concern.

First, he said, he plans to introduce provisions for higher tax revenues from gambling for the local governments.

Second, he wants to see the state legislature set bet and loss limits. "I want us to do whatever we can to attract 'middle America' gamblers, not those who feel they must gamble all the time to the exclusion of everything else."

Third, Franckiewicz intends to introduce language making it clear that county and city zoning ordinances concerning commercial operations will apply to gaming vessels.

Fourth, he said, he thinks the legislature needs to clarify see bingo kept for charity organizations and not be allowed on the boats."

Fifth, Franckiewicz cited the need to clarify which Coast Guard regulations will apply to gaming vessel operations.

"I don't think any responsible operator will object to that," he commented.

Turning from the legislative aspect of the issue to the monetary, Franckiewicz said the State Tax Commission is supposed to give the legislature a report at the January 1991 ses-

"That (Supreme Court) decision could remove all games of chance — including slot machines, roulette wheels and dice games, which gambling operations rely on heavily. Such a decision could get rid of everything but card games" — Franckiewicz whether or not sports betting and bingo will be allowed on vessels. "Personally, I'd like to sion about ad valorem tax exemption for gaming vessels.

Franckiewicz said the current legislation allows dockside gambling vessels to escape payment of ad valorem taxes, but the tax commission is checking possible ways to rectify that problem.

When asked how gambling

A tired but jubilant Stella Frilot won the last go-round of elections Tuesday night, garnering 63 percent of the vote to defeat Republican candidate John Mason.

Mason waited patiently while Frilot's supporters congratulated her, then extending his hand in courtesy, they hugged and parted.

Mason, speaking of the night's results, said, "We both ran a good, clean race. For a short time, I may have been at a disadvantage, for all the commotion that happened (about primary recounts), but the voters have spoken."

"Stella will do a good job. She is a classy lady."

Frilot faced Mason in the Tuesday, Dec. 4 general election following a defeat of incumbent Mayor John Longo in the Democratic primary.

Longo was seeking his sixth term as mayor of Waveland.

Frilot, Ward 4 Alderman since 1988, carried every ward and totaled 1,224 votes to Mason's 715 votes.

Hancock County Democratic Executive Committee chairman Charles Gottschalk, present as an advisor, commented during the ballot counting that many "firsts" were occurring that day in Waveland's history.

"This is the first time a Republican has run for office."

Waveland voters turned out in record numbers Tuesday,

KILLING TIME

By Traci Bonney

The southpaw viewpoint

When did you first realize you were different from other people?

I first discovered I was different in kindergarten. My class was making some little construction paper thing, and the teacher gave each of us a pair of those little blunt tip scissors you give children so they won't hurt themselves or try to imitate one of their movie idols — like Jason or Freddy.

As we began to cut out our little scraps of paper, the teacher noticed I wasn't doing it like everyone else and was having some trouble with the scissors. That's when she said something like, "I'm sorry, Traci. We have 20 pairs of scissors here, and none of them are left-handed scissors."

I discovered that day that the rest of the world wasn't left-handed.

I didn't think too much about it right then; what 4-year-old would? But from that time on, I was aware that I was different.

My third grade teacher didn't help matters. When she started to teach us to write cursive, she tried to convert me.

She saw me pick up my pencil with my left hand, and it was as if something snapped.

Have you ever had a teacher like that? They're generally the type you think would make neat moms or grandmas, until they do something like try to make you write with the wrong hand.

Well, she tried, but not for very long. She didn't have the time or patience to spend trying to turn a 7-year-old girl who had been writing with her left hand for three years into a 7-year-old girl who would willingly write with her right hand.

She didn't try to convert me, but neither did she spend any more time with me than was absolutely necessary. My dad still teases me on occasion about my handwriting looking like fourth-grader's. (That's all right, though; at least mine doesn't look like the track marks of an ink-dipped chicken.)

My dad — now there's another story about my handedness.

Dad started calling me "southpaw" when I was about 8 or 9, and hasn't stopped yet. At first it bothered me — it was bad enough that I was the oldest, the only female child in the family and (to quote my brothers) a "goody-two-shoes." Did he have to joke about something else over which I had no control?

I got over that, though, as soon as I found out who one of my ancestors is — Billy the Kid. That's right; one of my (not-so-great) great-great-great-something-or-other is none other than William Henry Bonney, the left-handed gunslinger who was one of the most obnoxious teenagers on the planet during his lifetime. In fact, he was so obnoxious that he was shot in the back at the age of 21.

But as I stated earlier, he was left-handed. I used this fact to great advantage when I was a kid. Whenever some pesky little person bothered me, I calmly advised him that I was a descendent of Billy the Kid and if the brat didn't leave me alone, I might show how much besides my left-handedness I had inherited.

Oh, I forgot to mention this: I'm the only lefty in my immediate family, and I couldn't find anyone two or three generations back to whom I could trace my southpaw tendencies.

Later, I found out Billy the Kid wasn't a blood relative, but an adopted ancestor, a child my real ancestors found on the Oregon Trail. So, that shot that terrorist tactic (pardon the pun).

Anyway, life as a lefty is interesting. It's hard to find good scissors without paying twice the price, for one thing.

In addition, people almost always notice the difference when you're writing. "Oh, you're left-handed? I didn't know that!"

How often do you hear, "Oh, you're right-handed? I didn't know that?"

That's okay, though; when someone makes a smart remark about it, I just tell them something that either shuts them up, sends them on a hunt for an explanation of my meaning, or both: "Well, we lefties are the only ones who are in our right minds."

Gambling

opponents can fight the advent of cruise vessel gaming in the area, Franckiewicz said that a court challenge of the gambling law's constitutionality and efforts to control legislation at a local level are the only two avenues.

However, he added, the court challenge may not be a viable option. "The law is badly written, but it isn't unconstitutional. A court challenge may prove to be unfruitful."

He stated that the people in the county need to prevail on their city and county officials to control gaming as tightly as possible through local ordinances and regulations.

He also objected to the provision in the state's constitution that prevents the gambling issue from being brought to a vote in Hancock and other counties where it passed.

"I disagree with that idea in general. I believe strongly that we should have the right of initiative and referendum."

However, Franckiewicz added, making that right a reality requires a rewriting of the

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Political columnist Bill Minor is the scheduled speaker for the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Annual Installation Banquet Friday at the Diamondhead Country Club.

Libby Roland, chamber executive director, says there may still be a few tickets available for the banquet. Interested parties are asked to call her at 467-9048.

Minor, a longtime bureau chief for the New Orleans Times Picayune in Jackson has columns running in newspapers throughout the state, including The Sea Coast Echo.

He is a very good speaker and keeps on top of state politics.

I am looking forward to his address Friday night.

A Blood Drawing, conducted by the American Red Cross, will be Wednesday, 2 to 7 p.m. at the Bourgeoisie-Stieff-Ray American Legion Post No. 77 in Waveland.

As always, there is a serious need for blood, and Lin Rutherford, co-chairman of this drive, reports a goal of 105 units has been set for this drawing.

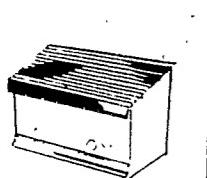

The Hancock County Blood Bank and Red Cross supply blood to the Hancock Medical Center and other coastal hospitals through this type of blood drawings.

Many folks, such as local doctors, nurses and volunteers donate their time to hold these drawings.

In order for a blood drive to be successful, there is a need for persons to donate a unit of blood.

Rutherford says persons or business owners interested in further information about the drive Wednesday can call him at 467-6276.

I hope everyone who can, will take the time to donate a unit of blood.

ASRM public hearing allows important input

To the Editor,
NASA's proposed testing of Advanced Solid Rocket Motors at Stennis Space Center still threatens the local residents and environment with 600,000 pounds of toxic air pollutants in each two-minute test firing.

On Dec. 6, at 7 p.m. in the Hancock High School, the Mississippi Environmental Quality Permit Board will hold a public hearing regarding NASA's applications for water quality, waste water and air emissions permits.

This is an important opportunity for all concerned citizens to voice their concern regarding this dangerous testing.

Attend this hearing and have your comments heard by the Department of Environmental Quality before the permit decisions are made.

Scouts learned valuable info from drug education talk

Dear Editor,
Cub Scout Pack 220 of the Bay-Waveland area recently had the privilege of attending a Just Say No meeting. The speaker was Matt Karl of the Hancock County Sheriff's Office. He was accompanied by Detective Terry Eley of the Narcotics Task Force and Stanley Hamilton of the Bureau of Marine Resources. These three men willingly gave up an evening of their time to come and speak to our Scouts. I can assure you, our Scouts were hanging onto their every word.

They brought a display of drugs, drug paraphernalia, confiscated weapons and even a bulletproof vest. The Scouts were able to view these things at close range and ask many questions. The officers answered every question and told the boys of their experiences at drug busts.

After looking at the deadly weapons, the officers allowed the Scouts to try on the bullet-proof vests. All of the boys agreed they would not want to have to face one of the weapons displayed wearing only a vest, specialized though it may be.

Every boy wants to have a hero, and I think they found three of them in one evening. We parents and cub leaders deeply appreciate the time and knowledge these men shared with our sons that night.

Hope that any person who works with kids will pick up the phone and call Sheriff Ronnie Peterson to ask if their group could have the privilege of attending one of these sessions. The more a child knows about the dangers of drug abuse the less likely he will be drawn into it.

Sincerely,
Geralyn Richardson

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Governor Mabus may be challenged by Dowdy

There are growing signs that former Cong. Wayne Dowdy of McComb has decided to challenge Gov. Ray Mabus in next year's Sept. 17 Democratic gubernatorial primary.

Dowdy has been invited to be guest speaker this Thursday night at the mid-winter meeting of the Mississippi Sheriffs' Association, an occasion that is bound to have a heavy overtone of politicking.

This is NOT, repeat NOT, going to be his coming-out party to launch his bid for governor, Dowdy told this column last week. But his speech to the sheriffs "may be a little political," he said with a chuckle.

And, he intimated, it very likely is going to be generously sprinkled with barbs at Mabus, something he has steered clear of in his remarks as he has begun to act like a possible gubernatorial hopeful the past couple of months.

At this point, my feeling is that Dowdy, who gave up his 4th District seat in the U.S. House of Representatives to make an unsuccessful race for U.S. Senator two years ago, is about 75 percent certain of taking Mabus in the 1991 Democratic primary.

Mabus will try to become the first governor in Mississippi history to be elected to a second successive four-year term.

Dowdy, now a 47-year-old McComb attorney, has told some friends that "I don't have anything to lose" in making a bid for governor next year if Jack Reed, the Tupelo Republican who lost to Mabus in an extremely close race in 1987, or former Democratic Gov. Bill Allain, don't run.

It's virtually a certainty now that neither Reed nor Allain will get into the 1991 gubernatorial round.

Meantime, Allain enjoys going about the state taking pot shots at Mabus for his administration style, which Allain contends is too elitist for the average Mississippian. In some political circles it is believed that Allain is "running interference" for Dowdy, helping to build the latter's base for a populist campaign.

Dowdy says he won't make any formal announcement of his plans until after the 1991 session of the Legislature ends next spring.

Obviously, Dowdy is convinced, as many political observers are, that the upcoming session is going to turn into a brutal confrontation between Mabus and the Legislature over how to deal with the massive shortfall of revenues and prevent devastating funding cuts for state institutions and vital state services.

If state government is brought to its knees and higher education is dealt a crippling blow as a result of the 1991 session, Mabus' ability to lead the state is going to be seriously called into question at a time when voters will be deciding if they want his leadership four more years.

Consequently, Dowdy, by waiting until the session ends to make his move, could catch Mabus' political stock, which according to his polls has been running relatively high up to now, in sharp decline.

The conventional wisdom around the state is that Mabus is not unbeatable next year and that the only opportunity will come in the Democratic primary since the Republicans apparently aren't going to be able to field a threat comparable to Jack Reed.

But given the immense campaign war chest that Mabus is building and the highly sophisticated campaign machinery he is assembling, only a Democrat with ready-made name recognition and a built-in base of votes would have much hope of competing.

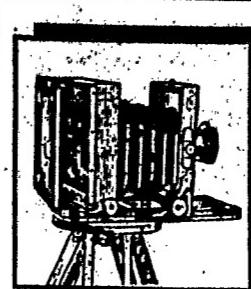

Dowdy seems to be the only possible candidate on the scene who could fill that role. Because of his identity with the black community for his historic stand in support of the Voting Rights Act in 1965, Dowdy could at least fragment Mabus' key black vote which saved his 1987 election.

As Dowdy knows from his 1988 Senatorial race with Trent Lott, one of his real strengths is in the rural counties (he carried more counties than did Lott), the area where Mabus is the weakest.

Mabus is obviously aware that Dowdy offers the only real roadblock in his way to an unprecedented second term, and he is leaving no loose ends where Dowdy is concerned. It was known last week that Mabus is trying to cut off every source of campaign money for Dowdy he can.

That's why Dowdy, if he runs, is only thinking in terms of a short campaign, and confining his contributions to small amounts.

At least Dowdy, should he want to be governor badly enough, could draw on his personal and family wealth to supplement a major campaign effort. But being governor of Mississippi is thankless enough a job without having to use your own money to get it.

The Bay St. Louis City Council was urged to acquire the old Debators Association home for a city Civic Center. Geraldine Lang, spokesman for the Hancock County Concerned Citizens, appeared before the council Tuesday night, requesting the city to look into the matter. The Debators Association of Bay St. Louis' property has a building on Union Street near the Louisville and Nashville Railroad.

The Waveland Board of Aldermen unanimously voted Tuesday night to discontinue a service contract for three dumpsters on South Beach Boulevard. The board action resulted from apparent abuse from citizens of Waveland and other neighboring communities.

Except for air mail, electric cancelling machines and trucks to haul mail instead of a horse and wagon, there just haven't been very many changes in Bay St. Louis' Post Office operations in the last 38 years. Such is the memory of Joseph J. Scafidi who went to work Aug. 27, 1927, as a substitute clerk and retires this Friday as assistant postmaster here.

School teachers, previously exempt from the draft because of occupation, will be called for induction in fall, according to Mrs. Carl Ladner, clerk of Selective Service Board.

When members of Boston College 1940 football team step off the train in Bay St. Louis some time this month prior to their game with Tennessee at Sugar Bowl, New Orleans, slated for New Year's Day, coming here for recreation and practice, they will find no Indians to greet them nor will they find any over the city and territory adjacent thereto. There are none left in the original population of Bay St. Louis. Originally Bay St. Louis was an Indian village. The Choctaw tribe called the place Chicapoula, meaning bad grass. Today the publication of St. Stanislaus College (a high school bearing the old French name for secondary school) is named the Rockachaw, present day name for a species of bad grass that grows abundantly in fields hereabouts just as other weeds. This might be a tribute to Chicapoula or born of a humorous vein. When the party from Boston College will disembark here from their long trip, they will be met by the citizens of a thriving and successful city and resort, faculty of St. Stanislaus College that will play host to the visitors from the effete city and members of the Sideline Club, a group of representative citizens that sponsors all athletic activities of the college.

Residents and patrons of Lake Shore are enthusiastic over the success of the public school at that place and its constant growth and the success of the work warrants a continuance of the interest so generally evidenced by the people of that locality. The "measuring party," given at the residence of Mr. Dan Ladner, a few evenings since, for the benefit of the school, was a success, and, as a result, a neat sum of cash realized. The attendance was large and all present enjoyed themselves to their utmost. Various games were among the feature of the evening's pleasures. According to the official reports the school has the largest enrollment in its history. Miss Edna G. Campbell is principal in charge, with Miss Gladys Ansley, of Bay St. Louis, assistant.

Intelligence from Jackson shows decidedly that the Confederate pensioners in this State have decreased in number of about 20 per cent in comparison with last year's list, and this is largely due to stringent regulations. Some many fraudulent pensioners have heretofore existed and the annihilation of their names is truly gratifying to all as well as this paper. The amount now appropriated is $37,500. With 3,000 names on the rolls last year the pro rata amounted to $20.75. This year the number is minus 500 names, and the pro rata is $27.00, or an individual increase of $6.75.

Wednesday 59,190 bales of cotton were shipped from New Orleans, and is the largest shipment for a single day on record. The British steamship Maroa alone cargoes 18,200 bales for Havre, France.

EMBEZZLEMENT

Investigator Matt Karl of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department recently reported the arrest of Annette Williams, 39, of Waveland on a charge of embezzlement.

Karl said Williams was arrested November 27 around 3 p.m. for allegedly embezzling $795 on or around October 5 from the Bay St. Louis company where she worked as a bookkeeper.

Williams has been released from the Hancock County jail on a bond of $1,500, he added.

BURGLARY

Investigator Matt Karl of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department reported Tuesday the arrest of a Bay Side Park man on a charge of burglary.

Karl said Thomas "Tommy" Harrison, 26, was arrested December 3 in connection with the theft of several tools and truck engine parts October 24 from a shed belonging to Bay Side Park resident Paul E. Reilly.

Harrison is the second suspect arrested in the case. A 15-year-old was first arrested November 14, Karl said.

He added that Harrison is in the Hancock County jail under $5,000 bond.

Young CES team shows potential

The Coast Episcopal Junior High team has started the 1990 basketball season in surprising fashion. The team is made up of mostly seventh graders with a sprinkling of eighth graders. Despite the youth and inexperience, the Raiders have played well.

The team opened the season by dropping a 34-32 nailbiter to Bensford Academy of Bogalusa. Showing a lot of heart, the Raiders avenged the loss by downing Bensford 30-29 the next week. A road trip to Rankin Academy resulted in a 44-35 loss. The game was much closer than the final score.

The team is led by seventh grader Chris Campbell, who is averaging 20.3 points and 10 rebounds a game. Tommy Rumrill, seventh grade, has tossed in eight points and nine rebounds a game.

Eighth grader Marty Vandernoot has pulled down four rebounds per contest, as well as turning in some solid defensive efforts.

Sanders Kane, seventh grade, has been running the offense at point guard while contributing three rebounds a game.

Eighth grader Bobby Garrett rounds out the starting five, adding two rebounds a game.

Injuries and illness have sidelined eighth grader Tim Gromley and seventh grader John Dane. Both players are now ready to play and should add badly needed depth.

Other team members include seventh graders Mike Strojny, Alan Uram, Jamie Homrig and John Painter. The team is coached by Joe Campbell.

With a 2-3 record, the CEHS junior varsity play Pine Hills on Dec. 7 and Chamberlain Hunt on Dec. 8. The next home game is Dec. 10 in the CEHS gym on Espy Avenue in Pass Christian.

CES Raiders face district foes this weekend on road

In game three of the basketball season, Coast Episcopal defeated Faith Academy 82-48. Tuesday night at Faith, the final score was reversed, as the Raiders were defeated 80-75 in overtime play.

Starting the game with its three leading scorers, senior Bruce Hull, sophomore Dave Hagan, and freshman Tyrone Jones, on the bench, the Raiders fell behind 18-13 after one period. The three were inserted into the game at the end of the first period, and the Raiders outscored Faith 19-15 in the second quarter, narrowing the lead to 33-32 at halftime.

The Raiders led 54-51 after three periods, but were unable to connect on some big free throws down the stretch. The score was tied 66-66 at the end of regulation. In the overtime period, Faith outscored the Raiders 14-9.

"This game was the worst we've played in two years," said Raider coach Jack Hutchinson. "Our kids have been reading about how good they are supposed to be, and they just were not mentally prepared for Faith's challenge."

Although the team performed poorly, sophomore George Hlass was cited for his solid play both offensively and defensively. Chris Ragsdale of Faith led all scorers, hitting 45 points.

Last Saturday night, the Raiders fell short in their bid to take over first place in the district, losing 59-53 to Prentiss.

Hull canned 23 points, followed by Jones with 18. Junior Chris Painter tossed in six, Hagan added four, and junior Adam Farragut had two.

The Raiders travel to Pine Hills Friday and then to Chamberlain Hunt on Saturday for two very big district games.

"We can't afford to come home this weekend with two losses," said Hutchinson. "We've got to regroup and get ready for both games."

The Raiders return home Monday night to play in the CEHS gym on Espy Avenue. Junior varsity tips off at 6 p.m. and the varsity game begins at 7 p.m.

Yes, Virginia ...

By Joe Williams Iliet
Research Historian
Twentieth Star Ch. N.S.
DAR

Yes, Virginia, there really is a Santa Claus and I have a written record to prove it! He is one of the most popular saints of the Christian church and is the patron saint of children, sailors, merchants and bakers.

It is believed he was born in Lycia (on the coast of Asia Minor). Some legends say he attended the Council of Nicaca in 325.

He was the Bishop of Myra but little is known about his life. He is said to be responsible for many miracles.

In several European countries today, he is honored on December 6. The Dutch brought the visit of St. Nicholas to America.

The name of Santa Claus comes from Sinter Klaas. In some countries, men dressed in bishop's robes pose as St. Nicholas, visit children, hear their prayers and encourage them to be good, then give them gifts. In the United States, men dress in bright red costumes and listen as children tell them what gifts they would like to have. Many children in the U.S. ask Santa to give them gifts for the family, such as fruits and candies.

Yes, Virginia, there is a real Santa Claus, and he works through many helpers.

Holiday Tour of Homes

St. Paul Altar Society sponsors Christmas tea, tour of Byrnewood

BY JANET MCQUEEN
The Altar Society of St. Paul Catholic Church in Pass Christian will sponsor a holiday tour of seven homes in Byrnewood Sunday, December 9 from 1-5 p.m.

A Christmas tea will be featured from 2-5 at "Great Oaks," the home of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Schmidt on Menge Avenue.

Tickets for the fundraiser are $10 each and are available at Griffon Pharmacy and St. Paul Church in Pass Christian and Jeanne Anne's Hallmark in Bay St. Louis.

Byrnewood, north of Pass Christian off Menge Avenue, is situated on property which was once a part of the Benjamin Lindsey estate.

Lindsey, onetime superintendent of Harrison County School System, purchased the home in 1886. The original structure, prior to the turn of the century, was two-story and one room deep. A large addition was completed by Lindsey to accommodate his 14 children.

Descendents of the Lindsey family sold the property to J. K. Byrne in 1977. Gradual restoration and renovation have refurbished the original home, while a guest cottage was added in 1985.

Attorney Julian Byrne III resides in the plantation home, which is tastefully decorated with antiques and original art.

Other homes open to the public are:

Home of Mr. and Mrs. N. Lee Stanbro—This colonial style home was the first to be constructed in Byrnewood. Local artisan Peter McCarthy designed the handsome mahogany staircase which is adorned with holiday garland. A large deck and gazebo are also focal points.

Home of Mrs. Etta Williams—Nestled among huge oaks, this elegantly appointed "Cajun cottage" features an old brick wall with hand carved mantle in the den and cherry cabinets in the kitchen.

Home of Georgia Kuhner—Warmth emanates from this painted brick home, where the artist-owner has filled the walls with watercolors of her children and other paintings from her extensive collection. A large kitchen is inviting, while a sitting area features a corner fireplace.

Home of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Berry—This traditional home is decorated in soft hues of blue, coral, peach and white and is furnished with many antiques. Of special interest are paintings and a lovely pool area.

Home of Dr. and Mrs. David Byrne—A stained glass window and church pew from St. Paul Catholic Church, prior to Hurricane Camille, greet guests in the foyer of this beautiful home. French doors open onto the wrap around porch and back width of the country-style home. Food will be available for purchase—for gift giving or for your own enjoyment.

For additional information, call Christmas Tour chairman Ella Mae Anthony, 452-4317.

Tribal masks designed

An exhibit of American Indian ceremonial masks is on display in the Kleinpeter-Gibbons Library on the St. Stanislaus campus.

Seventh and eighth grade classes researched various tribes where masks originated in conjunction with a unit on American Indians in reading classes.

A basic mold was formed with paper pulp and features were added using plaster and gauze. Masks were painted and tribal accessories added.

Pictured from left are seventh grader Brant Kunz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lewandoski of Long Beach; eighth graders Jamie Turcotte, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Turcotte of Bay St. Louis; Brooks Quinlan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mick Quinlan of Waveland; Eugene Schmitt, son of Mrs. Linda Schmitt of Pass Christian; and Jeffery Rhodes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Rhodes of Bay St. Louis.

HEART ATTACKS DON'T KEEP OFFICE HOURS.

WHEN EVERY SECOND COUNTS, YOU CAN COUNT ON US.

In the critical moments after a heart attack, immediate expert medical attention is crucial to survival. There's no time to try and track down a cardiologist. At Slidell Memorial Hospital, our Cardiology Team is at the ready anytime, all the time. Your call puts into action a well-honed emergency assistance plan. Even as the Emergency One ambulance speeds to the scene, skilled cardiac surgeons and other specialists prepare for the patient's arrival. By radio, cardiologists instruct emergency medical technicians on how to stabilize the patient enroute.

Not a second is wasted.

NOT A SECOND IS WASTED.

Slidell Memorial Hospital is the first in our area to provide round-the-clock emergency cardiology care. Timely specialized treatment by our team of highly-trained doctors, nurses, and technicians has given literally hundreds of heart attack victims a second chance...and a future.

The tree was donated by Jitney Jungle and decorated by members of the association.

Each Hancock County foster child's first name is printed on a purple ribbon that hangs on the tree. The color purple has been selected to represent the needs of children in foster care.

Children are placed by the Mississippi Department of Human Services with foster families for a planned period of time. The foster families have been licensed by the state following a foster home study procedure.

Foster families are substitute families who provide care for a child who has to be separated from his birth or legal parents.

Placement of a child in foster care comes about through either voluntary placement by the parents or as a result of a court hearing.

The primary goal of the child welfare services is reunification of the child with his birth parents whenever possible.

Membership in the Foster Care Association of Hancock County is open to the public, and interested persons are encouraged to help our children by lending their support.

Foster parenting is a rewarding and challenging experience. For more information about becoming a foster parent or for membership in the Foster Care Association of Hancock County, phone 466-5268. Together, we can make a difference in a child's life.

A better nozzle

Students at the Hancock County Vo-Tech have developed a penetrating nozzle which is being used by local volunteer fire departments. Less expensive than its factory made counterpart, the nozzles are constructed of donated materials and are used primarily in fighting mobile home fires. Leetown, Dubuisson, Delisle and Pass Christian Fire Departments are using the nozzles. The nozzle is attached to a 1.5 inch hose. When the point is driven through a wall, the valve is opened and water sprayed inside a burning structure.

WHEREAS, the Trustees of the Bay St. Louis/Waveland School District declare that it is necessary for the proper operation of the school district and for the advancement of the betterment of the students of the Bay St. Louis/Waveland School District to repair the tennis courts of the Bay St. Louis/Waveland School District which are in disrepair to the extent that they cannot be utilized for their stated purposes and there are no funds available in the school funds of the district or from any other source with which to make these repairs and WHEREAS, the Board of Trustees, Section 37-59-101, of the Mississippi Code of 1972, authorizes the borrowing of money for the purpose of repairing the tennis courts of the Bay St. Louis/Waveland School District;
